Board of Directors Meeting: March 20, 2014

Executive Director Report –Patti Wilczek

1. The first negotiation meetings between CLCS and the certificated and classified employees occurred on Friday, March 14. We are pleased to have gotten this process underway. Proposals related to several of the areas of concern were shared and briefly discussed. The conversation will continue on March 21, when we hope to review the remainder of the proposals, and start negotiating agreements.
2. The second of two meetings with the district-retained architects, to prioritize needs and wishes for long term facilities master planning, occurred on Wednesday, March 12. This discussion had both ACLC and Nea meeting together to create a prioritized list of wishes and needs, as part of AUSDs efforts toward long term facilities master planning.
3. As indicated in Joan Uhler's (CLCS board president) recent letter to the community, we continue in negotiations with the school district for an alternative to Prop 39 agreement. A move of both schools to the Woodstock School site continues to seem likely. Both parties mutually agreed to extend the district's deadline for providing their Prop 39 offer to March 26, thus allowing more time to work toward agreements. Once received, there will be opportunity for community comment and brainstorming.
4. Work toward creating an alternative path to graduation from our schools continues. I hope we are ready to present a draft to the Nea and ACLC facilitator groups within the coming weeks.
