Community Learning Center Schools Board Meeting: February 20, 2014

Executive Director Report –Patti Wilczek

1. We are working with CTA to schedule our initial negotiation meeting. We anticipate this will occur in March.

2. Nea and ACLC each had their first facilities master planning meeting with the AUSD-retained architects. These discussions went well, with each set of school representatives offering a list of facilities needs that will best support our programs in future (e.g., ensure sufficiently sized Center/Tree/Nest; multi-purpose science lab; flexible learning spaces). We have mutually agreed to postpone the second of these meetings until the latter part of March or April, pending clarity of where our schools will be housed next year, and beyond.

3. We continue in negotiations with the school district for an alternative to Prop 39 agreement. A move of both schools to the Woodstock School site seems increasingly likely. In the meantime, I continue to meet with parents, facilitators and learners whenever the request is made that I do so, and hold weekly small group discussions with parents to disseminate information and address concerns.

4. Work toward creating an alternative path to graduation from our schools continues. I hope we are ready to present a draft to the Nea and ACLC facilitator groups within the next month or so.

5. I've had several conversations with the district regarding our Prop 39 funding for support of a more environmentally sound facility. Given that we don't know where we will land next year, we have mutually agreed to put any project planning on hold, pending clarity in this regard. Postponing the creation of our plan does not cause any consequence with respect to deadlines, etc.
